

Gutzon Borglum

<http://gardenofpraise.com/ibdborg.htm>

Gutzon Borglum was born	into a Mormon family and raised by his step-mother.
Borglum's favorite medium for	would be a better choice for the mountain.
He did not finish his first large sculpture	envisioned regional heroes for Mount Rushmore.
The leaders in South Dakota first	expressing himself was sculpture.
Borglum told the leaders national heroes	his son finished the Mount Rushmore figures.
The presidents chosen were	Washington, Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt, and Lincoln.
The model he made in preparation	fourteen years and cost less than $1 million.
The finished sculptures on Mount Rushmore	did not include the bodies and arms.
Calvin Collidge was the president	at Stone Mountain in Georgia.
When the face of Jefferson was unveiled	was on a 1-to-12 inch scale.
After Borglum's death	President Franklin D. Roosevelt was in attendance.
The carving on Mount Rushmore took	when Borglum started the sculpture.