Directions: Underline the words in the story as you find them, unscramble them and write them in the boxes below. John Adams' father taught him to read when he was very young. Later he went to Harvard and graduated at age twenty. He became a lawyer and once as a lawyer defended some British soldiers. No other lawyer would defend them, Adams thought they needed representation. He was a brave person. Once he and his 10-year-old son John Quincy braved the ocean and sailed to France where they lived for a year. He served one year as vice-president to George Washington and then served one term as President. He and Thomas Jefferson were rivals, but they became friends again in later life. Curiously they both died on the same day, July 4, 1826.
